

RESULT DAZES WASHINGTON

Power of the Old Guard is Broken

THE INSURGENTS ON TOP

Hold Balance of Power in the Senate.
Possible Democratic Candidates for the Presidency Revealed.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Washington has not yet got its breath. In a dazed sort of way, it is groping about and trying to discuss the Tuesday results. Latest returns show that the Democratic victory reached proportions as great as the most enthusiastic follower of Jefferson and Jackson could have wished. Not since 1892 have the Democrats won anything like such a triumph.

Because the Democratic victory is due in large measure to Republican internal dissensions, the results have shaken the Republican party to its foundations. It is impossible to read at this time what will be the effect on the future of this great political organization. Not a few believe that it is the beginning of a nation-wide movement for a realignment of parties, perhaps for a third party.

The power of the old guard in Congress is badly shaken. Cannon and Cullum are doomed, and the insurgents hold the key to the legislative situation by holding the balance of power in the Senate.

The presidential situation for 1912 is affected in the most far-reaching fashion by the Democratic avalanche. The enemies of Roosevelt all over the land are shouting that Roosevelt has been repudiated, that the new nationalism has been rebuffed, and that Roosevelt is no longer available for renomination and should go to St. Helena.

All along the line, from old guard and conservative Democrat, the cry goes up that Roosevelt and the Roosevelt policies have been given a blow from which they will not soon recover. But it is not to be forgotten that Roosevelt still has many admirers, has hosts of followers, and it will not do to assume that he is by any means politically defunct. Should it turn out that the Democratic party is in the grip of reactionaries, it is a possibility that the Roosevelt tide may mount once more as high as ever.

The wonderful victory of Foss in Massachusetts, where he defeated Governor Eben S. Draper for re-election, the triumph of Judge Baldwin in Connecticut, the victory of Woodrow Wilson in New Jersey, the re-election of Governor Judson Harmon in Ohio, are not merely important in themselves, but in the case of Wilson and that of Harmon they furnish the Democratic party with presidential timber for the next campaign.

Both Harmon and Wilson will have powerful support for the Democratic nomination in 1912. Should Governor-elect Wilson, in his career as governor, live up to the professions which he has made on the stump, he will be a powerful candidate. He promises now to have strong support from the progressive sections of the middle West if his record as governor holds up with the things he has been preaching.

Now that the Democrats have the House of Representatives, what will they do with it? The thirteen months intervening between the election and the first regular session of the sixty-second Congress promise to be lively with Democratic politics.

Champ Clark of Missouri, minority leader, confidently expects to be elected speaker of the House, and to make good his boast that he will drive a team of Missouri mules down Pennsylvania avenue, but there is a good reason to believe that he will not have easy sailing. Robert L. Henry of Texas and James H. Doolittle of Wisconsin are expected to announce themselves as candidates for the speakership, while Swager Sherry of Kentucky and T. W. Sims of Tennessee also may be candidates.

Mr. Clark, in making formal announcement of his candidacy Tuesday night, said that the Democratic congressional victory would mean the reform of the objectionable House rules. If he includes in the list of "objectionable" rules that which gives to the speaker the power to appoint committees, and if he will stand by his position taken at the beginning of the present Congress, he will please Democratic and Republican insurgents alike and gain strong support from these quarters.

Disappointed as is the president at the loss of the House of Representatives to the Democrats, his political advisers are pinning their hopes to the fact that a three months' session of the present Republican majority in both branches of Congress is about to begin. They think that into that brief period the administration intends to crowd as much of its legislative program as there seems to be the remotest chance of enactment.

Much of the proposed legislation, which will be urged upon Congress in the president's forthcoming message, will be of a progressive character, and it is said here that the prospects are excellent for harmony in the Republican ranks. An effort will be made in the short session to pass as much progressive legislation as possible, because of the effect such measures would have upon the fortunes of the present administration two years hence.

GOV-ELECT WOODROW WILSON

cause I believe that it is the beginning of the end of that infamous demagogic slander of our country which has paralyzed business and humiliated as before the civilized world for the last half dozen years.

SOCIALISTS GET INTO THE HOUSE

Berger, Real Head of the Party in the Country, Chosen From Milwaukee District.

Milwaukee, Nov. 10.—Wisconsin is the first state to send a Socialist to Congress. The fifth district, composed of a part of Milwaukee and the northern half of Waukesha county, has elected Victor L. Berger, the real head of the party in the United States, to a seat in the next Congress. It is said Berger would have been the candidate for president two years ago had he been American born. It is probable that W. R. Bayard, another Socialist, is elected in the fourth district.

Mr. Berger organized the Social Democratic party in Wisconsin and has credit for the election of Seidl, the Socialist mayor of Milwaukee. He is widely known as the leader of the Socialist branch of the Federation of Labor, which has opposed Samuel Gompers on many occasions.

SOCIALISTS GAIN.

Double Vote In New York State Tuesday.

New York, Nov. 10.—Marked gains in the Socialist vote throughout the state are shown in the returns from Tuesday's election. Figures available last night indicated a total vote for Charles Edward Russell, nominee for governor, of 65,000, which is nearly double the 33,294 vote of 1908. In New York City Russell received 27,230.

Most significant, however, are the increases up-state. Sixty-five cities that gave a vote of 7,850 two years ago, show 28,000 this year. In the outlying districts the gains are especially notable. Districts which formerly showed less than 10 votes this year report from 100 to 300.

Among the large cities that show substantial Socialist gains are Buffalo, Schenectady, Syracuse and Rochester. In some instances the increases are as high as 500 per cent.

POPE HEARS OF ELECTIONS.

Merry Del Val Predicts Situation Like Cleveland's for Taft.

Rome, Nov. 10.—The results in the American elections were learned here with interest. Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary, had a message from New York, which he took personally to the Pope, to whom he said the Democratic victory meant a defeat of Col. Roosevelt generally.

The cardinal remarked that Democratic control of the House of Representatives would result in a situation like that of Cleveland's first administration and that President Taft would find it more difficult to further his policies.

London, Nov. 10.—The London stock market was greatly pleased by the results of the American elections. American securities opened strong, prices advancing generally, with considerable buying.

A BUMPER CROP.

Record Corn Crop of 3,121,381,000 Bushels.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The government crop report, issued yesterday, indicates a yield of corn of 3,121,381,000 bushels, the largest crop on record. The total yield last month was 3,046,000,000. The first last year was 2,772,376,000 bushels. Farm reserves on Nov. 1 were 119,095,000 bushels, against 82,437,000 bushels last year.

THINK LODGE FACES A FIGHT

Politicians Believe the Senator Has Hard

BATTLE AHEAD FOR SEAT

Democratic Gain of 49—Some Anti-Lodge Republicans Elected, Too—Guild Denies He Has Been Approached.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Arguing from the unofficial returns from the state election many politicians assert that Henry Cabot Lodge would have a serious fight for re-election to the United States Senate.

Though the legislature appears to be Republican by a majority of 27 on joint ballot, leaving the single Socialist out of account, several Republican members were elected on anti-Lodge platforms, and a sufficient number are non-committal to make the situation extremely doubtful in the minds of some observers.

The latest figures give the Republicans 128 representatives and 27 senators, and the Democrats 111 representatives and 15 senators, a gain of 49 for the Democrats over last year.

There are a good many close districts which may be changed by a recount, but the chances are that any change will be in favor of the Democrats.

If the present figures stand, it is argued Senator Lodge must hold practically the whole Republican strength to be returned to Washington.

That he will be able to do this is regarded by the Democrats as improbable, and many Republicans think that when the time comes for action a coalition will be formed which will result in his defeat.

It was reported yesterday morning that several representatives-elect had asked Curtis Guild, Jr., to enter the field as a candidate against Senator Lodge.

"You may say for me," said the former governor, "that no such conversation has been held and no such request has been made to me. That is all I care to say on the subject."

Enter Ames of Lowell, who was re-elected to Congress in the 5th district by a margin of a few hundred votes over James H. Carmichael, his Democratic opponent, who for several months been conducting an active campaign against Senator Lodge, and two or three senators and representatives-elect declared for him before the primaries.

As to Ames' Candidacy.

Ames' candidacy, however, was never taken seriously by the politicians, and Senator Lodge's friends do not regard him as a dangerous man. It is believed to be doubtful, also, that he could carry his Republican supporters into a coalition for the election of a Democratic senator.

It is expected that the Republicans who are planning to defeat the senator will endeavor to get some strong man, like ex-Gov. Guild, to make the fight against him.

The anti-Lodge men think the Democrats would vote for some other Republican, though they might not vote for Mr. Lodge. It is not improbable, however, in the opinion of many, that Senator Lodge will get several Democratic votes.

The avowed anti-Lodge Republican members-elect of the legislature are few. Senator Nason of Haverhill is the original Ames boomer and will stand by the Lowell congressman.

Representative John W. Hais of the 3d Franklin, John H. Cogswell of Lynn, George H. Stevens and Charles T. Kilpatrick of Lowell, are anti-Lodge men. Stevens was Ames' manager in the House last year.

Few of the representatives or senators-elect are declared for Lodge, and the anti-Lodge men declare that a number of them will oppose him.

Senator Lodge's managers deny that the senator is in any danger of defeat on the basis of present returns.

When asked his views as to the election of a senator to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge, Mayor Fitzgerald said yesterday:

"This is Gov. Guild's or Gov. Bates' opportunity. They owe it to the people to stand as candidates for the Senate. If it were a popular vote Tuesday, Mr. Lodge would have been defeated by 50,000 votes."

"Ex-Gov. Bates and Guild realize this as well as anybody else, and they should stand for the office. If the office is to be filled by a Republican, it should go to one representing the progressive sentiment of the state."

London, Nov. 10.—Frederick Fernor-Hesketh, the younger son of Lady Hesketh, daughter of the late Senator Sharon of California, disappeared mysteriously a week ago. He left his mother's home at Westover, Northamptonshire, a week ago Saturday and has not been heard of since. It is thought he went to Dublin and the police there are searching for him. The missing man is 27 and is a lieutenant in the 8th Lancers.

HEADS AND BRAINS.

Some of the Largest Have Belonged to Lunatics.

Is there any truth in the commonly accepted idea that a big brain is necessarily associated with a big mind?

The human brain consists of five major divisions, which, though intimately connected, are severally distinct as to function. Named from below upward, these parts are the medulla, pons, midbrain, cerebellum and cerebrum. All parts of the brain are permeated by nerve fibres, and are therefore concerned in the transmission of nerve impulses, but at least three parts are primarily occupied with other business. The medulla, which is the stalk-like connection between the brain and the spinal cord, contains nuclei of nerve cells, which propel the heart, lungs, blood vessels, and so on. The pons is a broad band of fibres, which serves to connect the right and left sides of the base of the brain. The midbrain is the forked upward extension of the medulla, a prong passing into each of the great hemispheres of the cerebrum, and, like the pons, the midbrain is chiefly a conducting portion of the brain.

The cerebellum, or "little brain," lies under the back part of the cerebrum and on top of the pons. It is the regulator of voluntary muscular motion. An animal deprived of its cerebellum can move and think, but cannot control its movements. Finally, we come to the cerebrum, the largest division of the brain, which overhangs the other four divisions in the form of two big convoluted hemispheres divided by a deep longitudinal fissure. In these hemispheres reside the physical mechanism of consciousness—reason, feeling, will. Here, let us observe, that of the five parts of the brain, only one, the cerebrum, has to do with the intellect. In fishes the cerebrum is the smallest part of the brain. Accordingly, though the whale has a larger brain than man, most of the brethren of Jonah are possessed of higher intelligence than is exhibited by the largest of fishes. The whale has more brains, but man has more cerebrum.

A cross section of the cerebrum shows that this part of the brain is made up of a large core of white nerve cells or gray matter. In animals of low intelligence, rodents, for example, the coating of gray matter is comparatively smooth over the surface of the cerebrum. But in higher animals, the gray matter is seen to dip down into grooves and fissures, now and then, an arrangement which requires more gray matter to cover a brain of given size than is required to cover the smooth brain of a rat. In man the infolding of gray matter is carried to a high degree of complexity. But in idiots the brain is smoother and less convoluted than in intelligent men. Consequently an imbecile might have a larger cerebrum than a bright man, but less gray matter. The brains of children are less convoluted than those of their elders.

Another feature of the case is that the amount of cerebrum is largely dependent upon the amount of blood circulating in the cerebrum. An individual possessed of a large well-convoluted cerebrum might be so handicapped by a feeble heart and poor nutrition as not to measure up to the average mental standard.

The average white man's brain weighs from 49 to 50 ounces. More delicate of frame and faculty, the members of the fair sex come next with an average brain weight of 43 to 45 ounces. The smallest human brains are found in Central Africans. And the average civilized infantile brain at birth weighs from 10 to 18 ounces, a brain much greater in proportion to the body than obtains in the adult.

Some of the largest brains on record belonged to lunatics. Several of these weighed upward of 60 ounces, and one weighed 64½.

If, however, a large brain does not necessarily mean a large intelligence, it certainly does not necessarily indicate a small intelligence. An excessively small cerebrum nearly always is associated with idiocy, and, contrariwise, some of the greatest intellects have resided in excessively large brains. Cuvier, who did so much for comparative anatomy and philosophy, had a brain which weighed 64 1/3 ounces; the brain of Daniel Webster weighed 65 ounces, as did that of Abercrombie, the great Scotch authority on the brain and nervous system, and both "Byron and Cromwell had abnormally heavy brains, showing marked evidence of disease."
